Holland's MODEL 1265

Ideal for planting hemp, tomatoes, melons, cucumbers, peppers and other vegetables that are in most green house trays.

The Holland Transplanter Model 1265 Mulch Planter will plant in bare ground or plastic mulch. The only transplanter able to plant a 4" pot deep enough to avoid wicking.

Holland offers 7 different size spades that are interchangeable from 3/4" square and round plug/ cell to a 4" plug/cell.

With the planting operator sitting at a comfortable upright position about 24" off the ground, the spades rotate past the operator and the plant is dropped into the spade. It then continues its rotation, piercing the plastic and into the soil below. When it is at its deepest depth it automatically opens the hole and sets the plant at the same time. The spade remains open as it raises out of the ground, leaving the plant in the ground. The water valve then gives each plant a shot of water on both sides to ensure the cell or root ball has a "perfect seal." The two rubber tire packing wheels follow, pressing the soil gently around the plant.
